Jenkins has risen and not Feldon

To start with let me say what a fabulous day we had on the weather front. I need to highlight the fact that I have had to adjust everyone's score. It seems on hole 13 most people played and scored it as a Par 5 where in fact it was a par 4. So, adjustments have been made and Alan still tops the day (on countback) with a splendid 26 points. Split into two halves of 13 and 13 he showed some signs of consistency. Is he back you ask? Who knows as long as he and everyone else still enjoys playing and enjoying the delightful social aspect of the Society. In close second was Geoff whose round included a birdie but missed out on top prize on countback by 1 point by getting 12 points on the back 9.

A new course for us and am sure everyone liked the course. The weather makes a big difference also. However, greens were surprisingly quick despite being hollow tined recently. Some challenging holes and some to remember. Great new club house too. Seemed a little too posh for us.

The breakfast was great and just about the right amount. One thing again I would like to mention, I know I keep going on and on and on about it, but can we please be mindful of slow play.

It's those little things like getting to the tee quickly (with a club), playing ready golf and not waiting for others as long as you are not in their firing line, putting out if you can, all adds up and can knock off minutes off the round and people and clubs moaning at me. Now that we are at the semi-final stages of the knockout there should be no more excuses of long rounds.

Has anybody seen Martin or Andy? I know they exist. I am sure they joined the Society, but they have disappeared. May have to send out a search party.

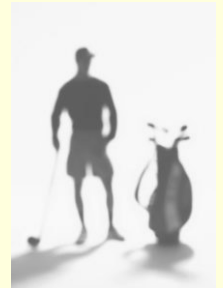

The next event is the PLAYERS WEEKEND. A lot of us are looking forward to it. The whole weekend is based on team events so we can bond.

All the information is on the website, and I will upload room listings and allocation very soon. I will work my magic as usual with regards the weather.

The next society one day event is at The Chase Golf Club. We can finally play that course again. The date is 21st July 2024

Please get your monies into me if you intend to go. See you there.
